Social media avatars

An increasing part of our communications is done through social media. In the past, many of our key entities including the campuses, colleges, administrative units, institutes and centers have created their own avatars or icons. While creating some differentiation, many of the avatars did not reproduce effectively. When appearing in smaller sizes, photographic icons were difficult to decipher and text was often impossible to read.

The use of the Penn State shield for all social media avatars follows our consistent approach to brand architecture. All academic and administrative units of the University will use the same avatar. This includes campuses, colleges, schools, departments, institutes, centers, other locations and administrative offices.

The shield shape with the focus on our Lion’s head and face is very effective for use as an avatar. It reinforces and strengthens our brand presence. Although there are different limitations regarding name length across social media sites there is always an opportunity to include the specific names of entities. Our preferred name use is with Penn State as the base name as shown here:
- Penn State Abington
- Penn State College of Nursing
- PSU Nursing

For social media sites, such as Twitter, it may be necessary to restrict the length of the name as indicated here:
- Penn State College of Nursing
- Penn State Nursing
- PSU Nursing
Incorrect avatar use

The incorrect avatar use on this page is representative of the ways in which avatars are often misused. Even worse, the incorrect use of an avatar tends to give license to and spawns other misuses.

Never redraw or try to recreate our avatar. Any modification of our shield diminishes its impact and weakens our legal protection. Only authorized artwork may be used.
